

Toxic Hazards and Your Community

The Centers for Public Health Education and Outreach at the University of Minnesota School of Public Health is pleased to offer free community education on the toxic hazards that are present in your community. Classes are interactive and range in length from 1-4 hours to fit your needs and cover such topics as:

- Identifying toxicants in your community
- Health Effects
- Reducing Exposure
- Federal Laws

The goal of this course is to raise community awareness of toxicants, promote health risk reduction strategies, and emphasize the importance of knowledge in reducing and preventing the presence of toxicants in the community.

We'll bring the training to you!

For more information

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Phone _____ Fax _____
Email _____

Would like information on upcoming courses

Would like information on hosting a course

Mail to CPHEO 2221 University Ave Se #350 Mpls, MN 55414 Attn: Jessica Tredinnick

Please contact Jessica Tredinnick at 612.626.5539
or tredi001@umn.edu